

BUT THAT'S NOT ALL, FOLKS...

POSTSCRIPT

In the course of researching the Crohn/Crown families, including reading the original handwritten census reports (similar to the one in the book) I have come to certain conclusions which I cannot prove but do wish to share.

According to family legend, Morris Crohn came to America prior to the Gold Rush leaving his wife Ernestine behind in Prussia with three small children. They were helped to America by their Crown cousins in England. Although Morris was found, he was never reunited with his wife Ernestine who at the time of the 1870 census was living with Lena and Israel Baum in Oil City, Pennsylvania. According to the original Family Book as well as Marion Lippman's memoirs, Morris, once found, was cared for by his sons until he passed away in 1898. He is buried in the family plot at the Union Field Cemetery in Queens, New York.

The question of the spelling of family names is an interesting one. We do not know how the Crohns/Crowns spelled the name back in Prussia since the records from their home town of Szomocyn no longer exist. The Crowns who went to Manchester in the 1850s spelled (or immigration authorities spelled it for them) it 'Crown'. Since Morris came to the United States by himself, probably in the late 1840s, it is possible that the immigration authorities spelled his name as Crown. Or perhaps he already knew the spelling of his English cousins' family name. I do not know where the Crohn spelling of the name originated, but it is unique.

I have not found any records of a Morris Crohn. However, I did find Morris and Ernestine Crown living with Israel Baum and his wife Lena (Crohn) in Oil City, Pennsylvania. I believe that they were, happily or unhappily, reunited some time prior to the 1870 census. In the 1880 census Morris Crown is living in Henderson, Texas and is listed as a widower. There is no record of an Ernestine Crohn or Crown in the 1880 census, nor do we know the date or place of her death.

If my assumption is correct, then it is possible that Myer/Meyer was not only the father of Morris, but was also the father of Theodore Crown of Manchester, Marcus Crown of Leeds, and Isaac Crown of Pittsburg. All three were born in Prussia and immigrated to England in the 1850s, at approximately the time when Morris went to America. Isaac Crown subsequently went from England to Pittsburg prior to 1865.

In the 1880 census there were 13 Crowns listed in the entire state of Texas as heads of household. One was Meyer Crown, whom we know lived in the same rooming house as Theodore Crohn in Rockdale. Another three Crowns lived in the small town of Henderson (60 miles from Palestine, the home of Marcus Crohn): Morris, (probably the widowed husband of Ernestine), Isaac (who was burned to death in Rockdale in 1888), and a Marcus Crown, who was born in Posen, Prussia in 1848. I cannot imagine three unrelated Crowns living in Henderson in 1880, so I must conclude that there was a family connection.

I will conjecture that Marcus was either Isaac's older brother, born before the family moved to England, or was, perhaps Marcus Crohn. Both Marcus Crown and Marcus Crohn were born in 1848. Since Marcus Crown was living in a rooming house it is possible that his name was spelled phonetically by the census-taker or provided by the manager of the rooming house. In the 1870 census we do find Marcus Crohn living in Central City, Colorado. However, in the 1880 census there is no record of a Marcus Crohn, although there is reason to believe that he was living in Texas.

Hopefully, someone from the next generations of our family will tackle the updating of our Family History and will carry out further research regarding the various Crown branches. Otherwise, it will be a task for professional genealogists. The information to be researched, however, is clear.
